

Company Infiltration

Surelock have a number of trained operatives who have been very successful in the infiltration of staff in the work place. Our operatives have vast experience in the investigation of crime and gathering evidence.

Company Infiltration involves long term commitments and the use of many different guises which we adopt to fit your company's requirements. All the operations are focussed on being customer led, but we are always there to offer advice as the case progresses.

Each operation will be supervised from our office and we will provide a daily log of events to our clients who are kept regularly informed of all matters so that action can be taken quickly, either internally within the company's employment policy or externally involving the police.

Our trained operatives can attend and give evidence at Employment Tribunals and Criminal Courts. Where possible this evidence will be corroborated using state of the art surveillance and recording equipment and as such it is unlikely that it will be contested in any of these proceedings.
